

PRESIDENT UNDER KNIFE WESTERN TRIP IS OFF

Officially Declared that There is No Occasion for Alarm.

TROUBLE FROM THE ACCIDENT

At Pittsfield, Mass. Necessitates Operation at Indian- apolis and Abandonment of the Trip--Feels Very Well Today--Enroute East.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt, it was authoritatively stated today, spent the best night on the train last night that he has had since his northwestern tour began and so suddenly terminated. He was in no pain whatever this morning. He had a slight fever yesterday—a fact not mentioned at that time—but this morning his temperature was normal. His sleep was a natural and uninteresting one, broken not even by the early morning stop in Pittsburg.

The President awoke at about 8:30 and greatly enjoyed his breakfast. He was in the most pleasant humor and joked with Dr. Lung, who examined the wound on his left leg. A compress is kept secured about it and it is hoped that the wound may not fill up again. If it should do so, despite precautions, it will have to be tapped again. The trip to Washington is progressing on a moderate schedule and every comfort required by the patient is at hand. It is expected that Washington will be reached before 6:30, perhaps an hour earlier. The President will be taken at once to the temporary White House.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt's Western trip came to an untimely end in this city yesterday afternoon. He was found to be suffering from a swelling in the left leg between the knee and the ankle which required immediate surgical attention and instead of being taken to the train to continue his journey he was conveyed to St. Vincent's hospital, where he was operated on.

The operation occurred at 3:45, and lasted only a short time. Then he was taken to a private room in the hospital to rest. After taking a light luncheon at 7:30 p. m. he was conveyed on a stretcher to his train, and at 7:50 o'clock the train left for Washington.

The following official statement was issued:

"At 3:15 p. m. the President went from the Columbia Club to St. Vincent Hospital in his own carriage, and shortly after he was in the hospital the operation required was performed by Dr. George H. Oliver, of Indianapolis, in consultation with the President's physician, Dr. George A. Lang, and Dr. George J. Cook, Dr. Henry Jameson and Dr. J. J. Richardson. At the conclusion of the operation the physicians authorized the following statement:

"As a result of the traumatism (bruise) received in the trolley accident at Pittsfield, Mass., there was found to be a circumscribed collection of perfectly pure serum in the middle third of the left anterior tibial region, the sac containing about two ounces, which was removed."

"The indications are that the President should make speedy recovery. It is absolutely imperative, however, that he should remain quiet and refrain from using the leg. The trouble is not serious, but temporarily disabling."

"GEORGE D. CORTELYOU, Secretary to the President."

The greatest secrecy surrounded the movement and the public was in ignorance of the proposed operation until Secretary Cortelyou gave out his statement.

After the President entered the operating room he sat down and waited for instructions from the physicians and surgeons, watching their preparations with keen interest.

"I am awfully sorry I cannot continue my Western trip," said he "Can't you let me go ahead with it after this thing is over?"

Several of the surgeons turned to him, and one said: "It is my opinion that you would be very indiscreet to continue on your feet, as would be necessary in your speechmaking trip, after the operation. This is by no means a serious thing and there is absolutely no danger of serious consequences from it if you are careful and stay off your feet until the trouble is over. But you should by all means, Mr. President, discontinue your trip."

"Very well, then; it will have to be that way," said the President, resignedly. "I will do as you gentlemen say. Now what do you want me to do?"

The President was told to remove his shoes and stockings and nether garments. He also removed his coat and vest. A moment later, however, he was told simply to remove his shoes and the physicians would be required to bare the leg only. This done the President walked to the operating table, and as he lay down he remarked with a smile:

"Gentlemen you are formal. I see you have your gloves on."

This was a reference to the antiseptic gloves of the surgeons.

"Mr. President," said a surgeon with a smile, "it is always in order to wear gloves at a President's reception."

This caused the President to exclaim: "Good; well said!"

The operation was begun without delay. The pain caused the President to mutter several times in a low voice but he said nothing that was distinct, except to ask for a glass of water before the needle was removed.

After the operation was over he made several laughing remarks concerning trivial matters and asked if he would be allowed to use his leg long enough to walk upstairs himself.

"You will be hauled upstairs in a wheeled ambulance," said the surgeon.

When they brought the vehicle in the President said:

"Why, that's a wheelbarrow."

"After being taken to an upper room from the operating room the President was served with a light luncheon and chatted pleasantly to those in the room. He made several kind remarks to the attending nurses about the trouble he was causing and shifted his position several times nervously.

At 7:40 p. m. a white blanket was thrown around him and he was placed on the hospital stretcher and, escorted by a company of infantry, was carried to the car, a block away, by four negro porters from the train. He bade goodby to the nurses as he was being carried out of the hall to the elevator, and thanked them for their kindness. He did not talk during his trip to the car.

CAUSE OF THE ABSCESS.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Before leaving Indianapolis Secretary to the President George B. Cortelyou gave out the following statement:

Richardson of Washington, D. C., being also one of the number.

"In the opinion of the doctors the trouble necessitated an operation, which was performed Tuesday afternoon at St. Vincent's Hospital in this city. As after the operation the President will require entire rest, probably for at least ten days or two weeks, it has been necessary to cancel all the engagements of this trip and he will go directly from Indianapolis to Washington."

"The physicians say that the abscess is not in any way serious and that there is no danger whatever. This statement is made so that no false rumors may disturb the people and that they may be authoritatively advised of the exact nature of the case."

A YOUNG FIREBUG.

San Rafael, Cal., Sept. 24.—A firebug who has terrorized this city for six months proves to be Anton Morris, aged 11. He has fired ten barns and seven houses according to the police who have arrested him.

CODE TINKERING

Cincinnati Delegation Would Combine With Democrats to Defeat Single Head Department Plan.

Columbus, Sept. 24.—The Senate has just voted to strike the franchise section from the code and let the old franchise laws stand.

Columbus, Sept. 24.—It is considered settled that the special legislative session will leave the franchise laws as they are now and arrange for the appointment of a bi-partisan commission to report at the next session.

Columbus, Sept. 24.—An agreement has been reached among the Republican leaders in the Senate whereby the code bill shall be reported back to-night and passed Friday. Tomorrow is to be devoted to argument of the code as amended in open session.

Columbus, Sept. 24.—Cincinnati is determined not to have a single head department plan of government in that city if there is any possible means to prevent it. In consequence, an effort is to be made to secure the passage of a home rule code, pass the whole matter up to council and the mayor and so far as she is concerned, Cincinnati will do the rest.

The manner decided upon to accomplish this result is a combination of Hamilton county Republicans with the Democrats. There are several other votes which the Hamilton county delegation usually carries with it and if the combination is completed, the Nash code will have rough sledding and the Guerin code will have no chance of passing the house. The Hamilton delegation will break the combination, however, if there arises a possibility to pass the original Nash code with only the amendment made in the senate committee of the whole.

THE FRANCHISE QUESTION.

The franchise section of the Nash code came up in the senate Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock as a special order, but on motion of Senator Archer, on a strict party vote, Senator Burnham voting with the Democrats against the motion, consideration of those sections, as well as the curative clause amendment were put over till Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. One of the purposes of this postponement is to afford Senators Harding and Godfrey an opportunity to get together on an amendment.

The one point of difference between them is that Godfrey, upon withdrawal of 40 per cent of the voters, wants all grants ratified by the people before they become effectual.

OFF FOR PANAMA.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 24.—The United States cruiser San Francisco, called at 10:30 this morning direct for Panama, carrying a heavy guard of marines from Norfolk barracks for shore duty on the isthmus.

SHIPS FOR SPAIN.

Madrid, Sept. 24.—The Spanish government has accepted the proposition from an Italian ship company for the building of eight modern men of war, King Alfonso says Spain must never again be in position to receive such a humiliating defeat as at Saragossa.

ODELL

Renominated Today At Saratoga.

Sheldon Forced Out Of The Way This Morning.

AND F. W. HIGGINS WAS GIVEN COVETED NOMINATION.

DECLARES FOR THE PRESIDENT

While the Platform Makes a Good Bluff at Opposition to the Trusts.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The Republican state convention was called to order today at 10:22 o'clock. Gov. Odell was renominated by a unanimous vote at 11:19.

Senator Frank W. Higgins, of Chattanooga, was placed in nomination for lieutenant governor at 11:22 a. m. by Congressman Veeland, and was unanimously nominated.

SHELDON FORCED OFF.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 24.—State Senator Frank W. Higgins of Olcott, will be the nominee for lieutenant governor at today's Republican state convention. George R. Sheldon to whom Senator Platt has clung with his characteristic tenacity, was forced off the ticket early this morning, and he gave out a letter of withdrawal, after a conference in which Governor Odell, who had been summoned here from Albany, Senator Depew, Mr. Sheldon, ex-Governor Black, Senator Elsworth Lou Payne, and Robert C. Morris, chairman of New York Republican county committee participated.

THE PLATFORM.

Saratoga, Sept. 24.—The state Republican convention in its platform today declared for Roosevelt for another term and endorsed the policy of the administration in the Philippines and new possessions.

There was great interest in the plank on protection and trusts. It says "the integrity of the protective principle must be preserved. It is required to maintain the highest scale of American wages." The platform condemns all combinations and monopolies which destroy competition or limit the production and pledges the party to legislation which will prevent organization of such illegal combines.

FIGHT ON

Between Temperance and Liquor Interests in Framing Code—Liquor Men Claim Victory.

Columbus, O., Sept. 24.—First blood in the fight of the state liquor interests against the temperance organizations to have the Beal law removed from the Code was won by the former association last evening in the Senate chamber. The temperance forces were not organized for the fray and were compelled to submit to a reconsideration of the vote of last week, whereby the bill was incorporated into the code. The announcement published yesterday that the fight was on and that a demand had been made upon the Republican leaders by the liquor men for a square deal was the first intimation that many members of the legislature had of the affair.

All through the day Tuesday Senator P. A. Baker and Wayne R. Wheeler, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League, were about the Capitol, endeavoring to keep up their friends. On the other side, Joseph A. Miller, of the State Brewers' Association, strove as hard to bring about the repeal of the Beal law. The result, an attempt was made to adjourn the Senate after the curative legislation had been passed, but it failed.

The ball was opened by Senator Patterson, of Pike county, who moved that the Senate go into the Committee of the Whole. This was carried without dissent. Then Senator Roy, of Tiffin, moved to reconsider the vote whereby the Beal law was adopted a part of the code. Senator Harris, of the opposition, moved to recess until Wednesday, but was defeated 14 to 11. Royer renewed the motion to reconsider and it carried, 15 to 6. He then offered the following as a substitute for Section 5, which contained the objectionable matter:

Councils shall have power to regulate ale, beer and porter houses and shops, but nothing contained herein shall be construed to repeal, alter, amend or in any way affect an act entitled "An act to amend Sections 4353, &c. (the Beal law)."

At this point Senator Burnham, of Dayton, moved that the whole matter be laid over to await the return of Senator Chamberlain, of Lorain, who is the author of the first amendment. This was done without division and the Senate recessed until Wednesday.

Wayne B. Wheeler and Superintendent Baker declared that, while the amendment appears to be fair on its face, it is designed to confuse and cloud the administration of the liquor regulating laws. The Chamberlain amendment provides that the Councils shall be guided in drafting their ordinances by the provisions of the Dow and Beal laws.

The Royer amendment they assert follows an antiquated section and would bring about confusion. Secretary Miller states that the amendment simply removes the Beal bill from the protecting aegis of the code and permits it to stand by itself before the Supreme Court. Both sides are claiming that victory will finally rest upon their banner. No attempt to reconsider was made in the General Committee of the House the action of the Senate being in the nature of a surprise to the anti-saloon folks.

C. S. & H. Bought.

Columbus, Sept. 24.—Paul D. Cravath of New York, representing the Putnam syndicate of bond holders, bought the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking today at the upset price of $2,750,000. He was the only bidder. This means that the road will be reorganized and operated under the present management.

PLEA

In Young Case to be Insanity—Is Suspected of Another Crime.

New York, Sept. 24.—Young, the grandson of the Mormon prophet, arrested for Mrs. Pulitzer's murder, will rely on a plea of insanity to save himself from the electric chair. His examination has been set for next Tuesday.

New York, Sept. 24.—Police Captain Schmittberger, who commands the precinct in which Mrs. Annie Pulitzer was murdered, is working on a theory that Wm. Hooper Young may have been connected with the murder of Mrs. Kate Feeley who was enticed away and hacked to pieces October 6, 1899. Mrs. Feeley lived in the flat of Mrs. Johanna Lucie. A man called at the house and asked her to go around the corner and attend his sick wife. She went with him and was never seen afterward. Parts of a body, supposed to be hers were found afterward. The Captain says:

"There are strong points of resemblance between the descriptions of the man who killed Mrs. Feeley and Young. Both were dark, both were westerners, both were the same height and age. The Feeley murderer was described as a man of strong physique, which Young is not, but it is known that not long ago Young, debilitated now by his excesses, was a well set up man, an athlete."

Shortly after the woman's disappearance a telegram was received in this city reading: "I am alive and well. Will write at once, Katie." The telegram came from Chicago. The police point to this telegram and to the note which Young sent the police after Mrs. Pulitzer's murder, saying he had killed himself.

In the meadow near Kreuznach, Prussia the authorities have picked up a balloon, a tablet in which showed that it was the property of the French Government airship department at Versailles.

There are more than 5,000 post-mistresses in England, and the Post-office Department employs altogether about 20,000 women.

CHANGED MIND ON LANDING

Pretty Widow Had Received Tickets From Two Men --At the Last Moment She Preferred Neiding to Hammer.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 24.—The local Immigration Commissioners were recently asked by Mr. Paul Hammer of Cleveland, Ohio, for information concerning Mrs. Clara Schroeter, aged 38, who immigrated to this country from Germany. He has been directed to one Henry Neiding of Ceylon, Ohio, who is supposed to know all about the fair immigrant.

Hammer advertised in a German paper last June for a housekeeper, and stated that if it were mutually agreeable he would make her his "frau." Mrs. Schroeter, who is a widow, with one daughter, 15 years old, read the advertisement and answered it.

A correspondence followed. Shortly afterward photographs were exchanged. Hammer, it is said, later sent Mrs. Schroeter a ticket and money for passage to this country.

Before the widow embarked she received a communication from the Ceylon man, very much of the same character as that she received from Hammer. Whether or not she exchanged photographs with him is unknown, but she did receive a ticket and money to join him in Ceylon. Mrs. Schroeter finally packed her trunk, and, with her daughter Elsa, took passage on the North German Lloyd steamship Breslau, landing in Baltimore on July 27. She registered as

Mrs. Schroeter, and stated that her destination was Paul Hammer's home in Cleveland. She passed the inspection, but afterward changed her mind and declared to the Commissioners her intention of going to Ceylon to meet Neiding, instead of Hammer. She possessed tickets to both cities, besides some money.

About a week ago Commissioner Wise, of this city, received from Hammer a letter asking for information about her, and he replied promptly stating that she left here on August 28 for Ceylon. He also gave Neiding's full name and address.

Ceylon is a small town near Sandusky, not many miles from Hammer's home. The local commissioners received a reply from Hammer, with which the latter inclosed a one-dollar bill and a two-cent postage stamp, to pay them for their trouble and expense, saying he was "poor, but honest." The money and also the stamp were returned to him.

The local authorities have no further interest in the case. Mrs. Schroeter and her daughter both passed the inspection satisfactorily. Subsequently Hammer wrote to the local agents of the North German Lloyd Company, with a view of recovering the money he sent to Mrs. Schroeter, but with what result is not known.

CORPSES ARE IN DEMAND

Grave Robbers Leave Bodies in Designated Spots, While Professors Deposit Cash at Appointed Place--The Two are Exchanged.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Developments indicate that two factions of body snatchers are at war in this city, and this accounts for the "knocking" from which the Central College has suffered during the past week, having been compelled to disgorge two bodies.

Either this, in the judgment of Dr. J. H. Ford, or else the "professionals" have quarreled with the college, or among themselves, and have decided to make it embarrassing for their enemies. Dr. Ford also says: "The day of the student-resurrectionist has passed. They are now all professionals. In former times many students robbed graves. It was gruesome work, to be sure, but it was exciting."

"Grove robbing is profitable enough. It is a good winter business. The colleges must have the bodies, and when the demand is larger than the supply they pay good prices. There is a market value in bodies, the same as in everything else, depending, naturally, on the demand and supply, and the condition of the bodies. It is that a number of graves have been hardly to be presumed that a body that has been in the grave for many days is as valuable as the one that has been there a few hours. The student is not nearly so valuable. I am sure I should feel bad if a relative should be found in the dissecting room, when I thought the body was peacefully resting in the grave. But if a grave were robbed I would likely never know it, and it would never hurt me."

Dr. Barnhill, adds: "When a medical college must have bodies to dissect, to comply with the law, and the law does not provide enough bodies, some one leaves some money somewhere, and some one leaves a body somewhere. They exchange. The college needs the body. It gets it. That is all it cares. It does not know where the body comes from, and does not care to know."

The expose in the Niedlinger case has aroused public resentment in Washington township, to such a pitch that armed young men nightly patrol the vicinity of the cemeteries. The guards carry shotguns loaded with buck, and they will shoot to kill, the belief being generally expressed that a number of graves have been despoiled in that township. Relatives are fearful to investigate lest there is foundation for the belief, and that it is now too late to recover a body if it is not nearly so valuable. I am sure I should feel bad if a relative should be found in the dissecting room, when I thought the body was peacefully resting in the grave. But if a grave were robbed I would likely never know it, and it would never hurt me."

DUMAS ON SNAKES.

A Characteristic Story of the Impassioned French Author.

When M. de Villeneuve was found lying dead in his room, the editor of the "Dumas" asked him for some articles or causeries, which were to be published immediately. "I have the very thing," cried Dumas. "I have just about to start on a whole series about snakes." "On snakes?" "Yes. I have the entire subject at my fingers' ends. I spent half my life studying them. There's not a soul who knows anything about the dear, interesting little creatures. You will find it will be a great success—this article." The editor, half convinced, agreed to accept this article "on snakes," saying to himself, "After all, Dumas is very likely to hit on something effective." "If you want a little cash in advance, you can draw on me," "I have plenty," said Dumas. "For the first time in my life, I confess; but still, I really have enough."

They parted, and the editor returned to his office. On arriving there he found Alexander's secretary waiting for him with the following paper, ready signed:

Received the sum of 50 napoleons on account of my story. A hearty squeeze of the hand.

The next day the secretary arrived with the first feuilleton and a letter, which ran:

My Dear Friend—Be kind enough to hand the bearer the sum of 2 napoleons.

A. D.

The very same evening came a dispatch from Havre:

On receipt of this please send 20 napoleons to my lodgings at Paris. A thousand thanks.

A. D.

An hour later came another:

My Dear Sir—I should have said 20, not 20 napoleons. You are my best friend. The feuilleton is on the road.

A. DUMAS.

The finale of this capital story is no less characteristic. The feuilleton arrived by post on the following day and was found to contain exactly four lines of Dumas' composition, two at the beginning and two at the end of the paper. Thus it ran: "I am following from my good friend, Dr. Herod, the following particulars about snakes." Then came a long essay on that subject, all copied out in his own neat hand, and closed by this original remark: "In my next I will deal with the boa constrictor, the most curious of all the snakes."—Black and White.

ZEB'S GHOST STORY.

THE OLD HUNTER'S EXPERIENCE WITH A SO CALLED SPOOK.

He Relates a Tale of How He Punished a Critter Who Almost Frightened His Wife and Himself to Death Several Years Ago.

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.]

It was a gusty October night on the Cumberland mountains as I sat with Zeb White before his big kitchen fireplace, and now and then the wind whistled among the pines in a way to make one feel a bit creepy. We had roasted and eaten the chestnuts and lighted our pipes for a smoke when I asked the old man if it wasn't a good night outside for spooks.

"It's just the right sort of a night," he replied, "but I ain't skally expectin' one to visit us. One did call on me one night, though, six or seven years ago."

I begged him for the story, and as the doors and windows rattled and the wind moaned in the big chimney he continued:

"I got home one evenin' to find my ole woman so skeered that she was whiter'n snow. I reckoned she had been struck dumb for awhile, but bimeby she got the use of her tongue and sez to me:

"THE GHOST WAS LOOKIN' THROUGH THAT WINDLASH AGIN."

"Zeb White, git out that Bible and begin to sing and pray, fur our time has surely come to leave this airth!"

"What's bin a-gittin'?" sez I.

"A ghost! I sot in the open doah, waitin' fur yo', and a ghost walked out from behind the mawl shed and stood and looked at me. Zeb, the Lawd has sent a warnin' to git ready!"

"I don't believe no sich talk," said the old man, "but she was so pot that she had seen a ghost and was fearful skeered. We went to bed, and 'long about midnight she yelled out and woke me up. Then I seed the ghost myself. He was lookin' inter the winder over thar, and fur two or three minits I couldn't move a finger."

"Then it was a he ghost?" I asked.

"Yes, I reckon it was. Yes, as nigh as I could make out it was a he ghost. I had a face like a man who'd suddenly met a bar and got dreadfully skeered. His eyes was rollin' and his jaws workin', and I felt chills go over me as I said to the ole woman:

"Pears to me that our time on this airth is up and make a fight fur it with the ax!"

"Don't do it, Zeb," sez she as she shakes from head to heel. 'If yo' make that ghost mad, we'd dun fur fur sum. Look at his eyes, will yo'?"

"I'm a-lookin', but I ain't gwine to lay yere and let no critter of a ghost make up faces at me even if he's ten feet high!"

"When I got under hed, the ghost vanished, but I didn't sleep no mo' that night. The ole woman was fur believe'n that death was at hand, and most of the next day she was readin' the Bible and singin' hymns. I didn't take it as no sign sent by the Lawd, but I was mighty puzzled to know just what it was. That evenin' I sot in the doah with my rifle till 10 o'clock, but nuthin' showed up. Then we went to bed and mebbe it was 2 o'clock in the mawnin' when my ole woman booted sich a boot that every bar on my head riz on end. The ghost was lookin' through that same winder agin, and I was that upset that I couldn't stand up when I rolled over bed. Bimeby I could git my rifle, the thing was gone and the ole woman was in a fit. When she cums out of it, she begins to sing and pray, and I reckon I was almost as big an idiot as she was. All I could do was to stand and stare and wonder if these old mountings had finally come to turnin' out spooks and ghosts as well as bars and wildcats. Bimeby, when she could speak, she was fur runnin' away and leavin' the house and everything behind, but I was gittin' riled up, and I sez:

"We don't stir a foot till that ghost proves hisself a bigger man than I am. Yo' kin huddle up on the bed, and I'll watch fur the critter the rest of the night out!"

"That's what I sez, and while she whimpers and groans I sot down on a chair and kep my eyes peeled and my finger on the trigger."

"And you believed it was a ghost?" I asked.

"Not skally say what I believed," he replied, "I had heard heaps of talk about spooks and spirits and I reckoned one might be buzzin' with me. When it cum daylight and the ole woman was too upset to get breakfast, I begun to get real mad. She wanted me to sing and pray with her, but I just walked out and went over to Sam Smith's and sez to him:

"Sam, I'm a-wantin' a drink of co'n juice outa that jug of yo's, fur co'n is not long fur this world and I want to go out of it with the taste of good whiskey in my throat."

"Bin hevin' dreams?" sez Sam as he brings out the jug.

"Wuss-heaps wuss. I've seen a ghost!"

"Shoo! Did he leave any tracks?"

"Wain't! He left as he reached for his pipe from the mantle and looked a bit foolish. I went on to tell Sam all about it, and when I had finished he told me just what to do. When I started fur home, I was carryin' his big bartrap. When I flings it down at my doah, the ole woman crawls out to ax me what I was gwine to do.

"Catch the ghost," sez I.

"But how kin spirits be catched?"

"Can't rightly say, but I'm gwine to 'speriment a leetle."

"Ar yo' a-defyin' of the Lawd, Zeb White?" she asks as she begins to weep.

"I'm a-defyin' of nothin', but just waitin' fur that ghost to cum."

"Yo'll burn an' burn forever fur not heedin' the sign."

"Mebbe I will, but yo' keep quiet an' don't skeer that ghost away."

"And did it appear?" I asked as the old man took a long minute to fill his pipe.

"Fur suh," he answered. "Yes, sah, bimeby the ghost showed up. He was gwine to look inter the winders, same as befo', but he changed his mind when he stepped inter that bartrap. I used to be sunthin' on the yell myself, but the way that ghost booted beat my time all holler. The ole woman fainted dead away, but I got outer bed and lit up and dressed myself and wasn't in no great hurry either. The hootin' kept up, and arter about ten minits I went out to see what a ghost looked like. Thar was a bed sheet lyin' on the airth, and with one leg cotched in the trap was a man. I knowed him to once fur an onery critter named Piny Green, livin' farder up the mountin'. He was sorter down on me kase I wouldn't naybur with him, and he was playin' ghost to spite me. When I axed him what he was doin', he purtened his darter was sick and wanted company. I left him right thar and went in to my ole woman and nursed her up and told her what I had cotched in the trap. I never seen her so mad befo' or since. She'd bin layin' it to the Lawd, and it was only that pesky Piny Green. I went out and cut some switches, and then I held the candle while she licked the varmint till he couldn't hoot another holler. Then I got him outer the trap and let him go, and he jest limped off to No'th Carolina and never cum back."

"And what did Mrs. White think about ghosts arter that?" I asked.

"Before old Zeb could answer me Mrs. White appeared in the kitchen door and said:

"What yo' critters dun talkin' 'bout at 10 o'clock at night? Better git to bed or yo' won't be fit to hunt that bee tree tomorrer!"

BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

Unique Volume Devoted to a Long Trip on a Donkey.

[Special Correspondence.]

New York, Sept. 22. Something unique and entertaining is "On a Donkey's Hurdle," by H. P. Woodward, whose alliterative pen name is Pythagos P. Starting from New York without a dollar, Mr. Woodward undertook to secure a donkey and ride the animal across the continent to San Francisco. Among the conditions were that P. should wear a plug hat and a frock coat and that both he and the donkey must wear spectacles. He was to earn his way across the continent and was not to beg, borrow or steal.

All of these conditions Mr. Woodward fulfilled, making what he calls

PYTHAGORAS POD ON THE HUMANE DECK.

"a tempestuous voyage of 4,096 miles" in 340 days and 2 hours, twenty-two hours less than he was to be allowed for the trip. When he had finished, he wrote a book about it. While P.'s story would be much more amusing were his efforts to be funny less obvious, most readers will follow the chronicle of his adventures with interest and laugh heartily over the numerous mishaps which he seemed to take with so much good humor.

Pod seems to have had a genius for making his way, for he lost no opportunity to turn the great amount of free advertising which he received into dollars and cents. He lectured when he could get an audience and sold photographs of himself and his donkey to every one who would buy.

In conclusion he says: "I had eleven donkeys on my overland trip, never more than five at one time. I wore out ten pairs of boots and put 148 shoes on my animals at an average cost of 90 cents each and arrived at my journey's end with several hundred dollars in pocket and weighing thirty-three pounds more than I did the day I set out from New York with 99 cents." And he ends with the epigrammatic epilogue which he credits to Mac A'Roni, one of his donkeys, in which are the following:

"This tale will be hard to swallow because truth is stronger than fiction. The trip was more delightful for Pod than for me.

"There are four distinct distances across the American continent, viz:

"Three thousand miles as the crow flies.

"Three thousand five hundred as the train steams.

"Four thousand by overland trail for a man.

"A million miles as a donkey goes.

"The most monotonous constant companion for a long journey is a man.

"There are more people who descend to the level of a jackass than donkeys that rise to the plane of man."

Another new book is "Poco a Poco" (Scribner & Co.), which is of unusual interest to all Washingtonians for the reasons, first, that it is a Washington story and exploits a scheme which, were its object attained, would be of the utmost importance to that city, and, second, because the author, William Franklin Johnson, lived in the national capital for several years, having had a brilliant business career while there. He is best known as the founder of the Washington National Building and Loan and of the International Building and Loan associations.

Mr. Johnson is known in almost every town, city and hamlet throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland and the Virginia through his connection with building and loan associations, his success and ability in that business having given him a national reputation among all interested in savings and loan affairs.

During the period of his greatest business activities, anxieties and responsibilities Mr. Johnson was quietly preparing for a literary career—so quietly that few knew of that final great ambition of his life. He has carried into his book the action, virility, breadth and determination which characterized his business methods. And he looked upon every experience, whether favorable or adverse, as a lesson which should make his final contribution to a literary career.

Sir Gilbert Parker's famous novel, "The Right of Way," is to be added to the list of dramatizations of popular fiction. Sir Gilbert is now engaged in putting the finishing touches to the play which he himself has written. Mr. William Faversham will impersonate Charlie Steele some time in October. The novel is eminently suited to stage dramatization. It has a strong central character of a unique and intensely fascinating type, a story of great power and suspense and many striking dramatic situations. Indeed, the dramatist is more likely to be embarrassed by the richness of his material than by any lack of it for stage presentation.

FREE PASSES.

MUNICIPAL CODE.

7. That we demand the enactment of a code which provides absolute home rule for municipalities which shall include the right to establish the merit system with civil service under which that system, as now in use in fire and police departments may be strengthened and perfected and he extended to other municipal departments particularly to water and lighting plants now operated by municipalities and to street car and all public service plants that may hereafter be established under municipal ownership and operation.

HANNA, COX AND FORAKER.

8. That we condemn the vicious and corrupt bargain between the boss of Cincinnati and Ohio's United States Senators to force through the legislature a code that will foist upon the municipalities of Ohio Cincinnati's form of government in order that the power of his boss may be preserved on one hand and on the other hand will perpetuate existing street railway franchises which Ohio's United States Senators represent.

9. That the municipal code should protect the public against all clauses which may be clandestinely placed therein in the special interest of public service monopolies by requiring that all ordinances granting, renewing, extending or modifying franchises shall be inoperative until confirmed by a majority vote of the people of the municipality, and we are unalterably opposed to the granting of any perpetual franchises.

SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

10. That until United States senators are required by amendment to the federal constitution to be elected by popular vote nominations of candidates for United States senator should be made by state conventions. And we hereby direct that in the official call for the next Democratic state convention of Ohio there be embodied a clause providing for the nomination of that convention of Democratic candidate for United States senator and a clause providing for action by said convention, upon all amendments to the state constitution then pending before the people.

Upon these principles of home rule, and just taxation, and to the accomplishment of these purposes in municipal and state affairs, we invite the cooperation of all citizens of Ohio, regardless of their party affiliations, on national questions, hereby solemnly pledging our candidates to the faithful observance of this declaration both in letter and spirit.

FULL TEXT

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

In state convention assembled, we, the Democrats of Ohio, hereby acknowledge and declare our continued allegiance to the Democratic party of the nation and on national issues reaffirm and endorse the principles laid down in its last national platform adopted at Kansas City, and which was fully and ably represented in the presidential campaign of 1900 by William Jennings Bryan. Regarding those principles as opposed to imperialism and colonialism, as opposed to government by injunction, as opposed to trusts and trust-fostering tariffs, as opposed to financial monopolies and privileges, we condemn every effort to repudiate or ignore them.

In state and municipal affairs we pledge our party to a faithful application of those Democratic principles, to the end that the burdens of taxation may be equalized and home rule and local self-government be established and preserved.

REPUBLICANS ARRIGNED.

Under the long continued control of the Republican party in this state, monopoly has been fostered and protected; the farmer and the small home owner have been burdened with excessive taxes that the beneficiaries and favorites of that party might be permitted to escape their just share of the public burdens; our public institutions have been wastefully and inefficiently managed and in them scandalous and cruel wrongs have been practiced upon the defenseless wards of the state; the farmers and small shippers continue to suffer from unregulated monopoly; the fine system of municipal government has been wrecked and the credit of cities destroyed, thereby producing a spirit of insecurity and unrest in all public affairs. The people can no longer trust the administration of their affairs to a party thus recklessly devoted to interests adverse to the public welfare. As a more specific statement of our principles upon these and other public questions we declare:

TAXABLE PROPERTY.

1. That all taxable property should be appraised by assessing boards which should be in session for at least a part of each year and whose proceedings and deliberations should be open to the public; that power be given to employ a representative to present the interests of the public in hearings before these boards and that in making assessments all property should be appraised at not less than its saleable value.

2. That the present laws for assessing the property of steam railroads and other public service corporations should be so changed as to compel the assessment of those properties at not less than their saleable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

CLASSIFICATION.

3. That to prevent evasion of state taxes by discriminating valuations, a separation of the sources of state and local revenues should be made. And to that end, we heartily endorse the constitutional amendment now pending before the people and to be voted on next year, which will permit classifications of taxable property.

4. That all public service corporations should be required by law to make sworn public reports and that the power of visitation and examination over such corporations should be given to the proper auditing officers to the end that the true value of the privileges had by such corporations may be made plain to the people.

FREE PASSES.

5. That the acceptance of free passes or other favors from railroads by public officers or employees should be adequate ground for their removal from office.

6. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion in times of labor disturbances is a denial of the right of free speech,

FREE TO MILLIONS.

A Valuable Little Book Sent Free for the Asking.

Medical books are not always interesting reading, especially to people enjoying good health, but as a matter of fact scarcely one person in ten is perfectly healthy, and even with such, sooner or later sickness must come.

It is also a well established truth that nine-tenths of all diseases originate with a breaking down of the digestion, a weak stomach weakens and impoverishes the system, making it easy for disease to gain a foothold.

Nobody need fear consumption, kidney disease, liver trouble or a weak heart and nervous system as long as the digestion is good and the stomach able to assimilate plenty of wholesome food.

Stomach weakness shows itself in a score of ways and this little book describes the symptoms and causes and points the way to a cure so simple that anyone can understand and apply.

Thousands have some form of stomach trouble and do not know it. They ascribe the headaches, the languor, nervousness, insomnia, palpitation, constipation and similar symptoms to some other cause than the true one. Get your digestion on the right track and the heart trouble, lung trouble, liver disease or nervous debility will rapidly disappear.

This little book treats entirely on the cause and removal of indigestion and its accompanying annoyances.

It describes the symptoms of Acid Dyspepsia, Nervous Dyspepsia, Slow Dyspepsia, Amylaceous Dyspepsia, Catarrh of stomach and all affections of the digestive organs in plain language easily understood and the cause removed.

It gives valuable suggestions as to diet, and contains a table giving lengths of time required to digest various articles of food, something every person with weak digestion should know.

No price is asked, but simply send your name and address plainly written on postal card to the P. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., requesting a little book on Stomach Diseases and it will be sent promptly by return mail. 17-19-24-26

FOUND NAKED IN CORNFIELD AND IN A PITIABLE CONDITION

Erasmus White, Suffering From Nervous Collapse, Escapes From Attendant and for Six Hours Wandered Aimlessly About Near Black Hand Wednesday.

Word was received by Sheriff Wm. H. Anderson this morning about nine o'clock from Dr. Postle of Black Hand, that Erasmus White, who lives near that village, most of his time, however being spent in Newark, had gone violently insane and that four men including a constable were then on their road to Newark with him.

The men arrived at the county jail with Mr. White about 10:30 o'clock and he was in a pitiable condition of nervous collapse. Attorney Charles W. Miller who is agent in Newark for the unfortunate man's son, Archie White, president of the American Securities Company, of New York City, was notified and took charge of the case, looking after the comfort of Mr. White.

Mr. Henry Courtier was secured as nurse, and everything done for male Mr. White as comfortable as possible in the county jail. Dr. Hatch was called and administered the proper remedies and about 2 o'clock this afternoon the patient sank into a restful slumber, from which it is hoped he will awaken much improved in condition.

OPERATORS

Feel Confident of Winning the Strike But Make No Predictions as to Length of Time.

New York, Sept. 24—The usual weekly meeting of the directors of the Temple Iron company was held here. There were present when the meeting began President Baer, of the Philadelphia & Reading; Truesdale, of the Lackawanna; Fowler, of the New York, Ontario & Western; Olyphant, of the Delaware & Hudson Canal company; Walters, of the Lehigh Valley; E. R. Thomas, chairman of the board of directors of the Erie railroad, and John Markle, of the G. B. Markle Co., and Alfred Stearns of Coxie Brothers & Co. independent coal operators.

In the forenoon Mr. Markle went to J. P. Morgan's office and had a long conference with Mr. Morgan. When leaving Mr. Markle was asked if the conference had to do with the coal strike. He refused to say what the nature of his business had been.

Later at the office of President Baer Mr. Markle was asked whether it is true, as President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, said, that no licensed miners have returned to work in the mines since the strike began last May.

"That is absolutely false," Mr. Markle answered. "There are several hundred certified miners at work today cutting coal."

President Baer, before leaving for Philadelphia, said that the meeting had been entirely informal. After the main meeting President Baer and three others, including Presidents Fowler and Truesdale, held a private conference for half an hour.

Regarding the situation in the anthracite fields, President Baer said that every day showed a larger proportion of striking miners returning to work. When asked how much longer he thought the strike would last, he said:

"I am not a prophet. The strike will end. That is the one thing we may all be certain of. But I will not attempt to say when it will end."

The attention of President Underwood, of the Erie, was called to the published statement of Carroll D. Wright that the strike might last three weeks or a month yet, but that the strikers would lose.

"The strike is breaking up," said Mr. Underwood, "and such a statement from Mr. Wright will probably help matters along. There is a constant improvement in the situation in the coal field along our lines. But I will not attempt to predict when the strike will end."

Wholesale prices are quoted as follows today by one of the largest dealers and shippers in the city:

Egg, stove and nut sizes anthracite $13 a ton gross; pea coal $7.50 a ton gross; buckwheat No. 1. $7.50; soft coal $5 to $5.50 ton gross. This dealer said that all anthracite coal offered from Black Hand, it was learned that Mr. White came to his home from Newark Monday, after having been in town indulging in alcoholic excesses. He stopped off short, and the nervous system received a severe shock. An attendant was with him Monday night and Tuesday night until about 1 o'clock, when during a lapse of vigilance Mr. White escaped. He was found this morning in a neighboring corn field, stark naked, holding himself partially erect by clutching some corn stalks.

He was unable to talk, and was taken to a barn nearby. An attempt to put on his clothes met with determined resistance, and a blanket was thrown about him. Later he was partially clothed and brought to Newark.

Mr. Archie White of New York, and Mr. Rollin White who is connected with a large salt works in Cleveland, were notified of their father's condition by Mr. Miller.

Mr. White will be removed to the hospital as soon as possible.

It is generally believed that his condition was caused by the sudden stopping of alcoholic stimulants after a protracted over indulgence.

in the New York market at present carries from 25 to 30 per cent. slate.

A member of one of the largest wholesale and retail companies in the city said that in the next few days there will be an advance in the prices of the smaller sizes of anthracite, owing to the scarcity of soft coal.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 24—The Thirtieth regiment experienced a night of great activity. Companies and detachments were kept on the move dispersing mobs, quelling petty outbreaks and giving protection in terror stricken districts during the night and at daybreak were sent to various stations to protect men on their way to work and in anticipation of trouble.

STOCKS

Slumped Again This Morning Amid Some Exciting Scenes.

New York, Sept. 24—Stocks slumped again this morning on the stock exchange amid exciting scenes. Every broker seemed to have selling orders when the first call came and they rushed about the floor wildly in their efforts to fill orders.

Naturally, practically the whole list declined, in some cases violently. Louisville & Nashville dropped 3 per cent. Atchison 2 1-8 and others between 1 and 2 per cent. Tight money alone was responsible for the break.

New York, Sept. 24—A. R. Sprecht & Co., members of the Consolidated Exchange, have failed.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24—Robt. Koons & Co., a prominent firm of brokers announced today on the stock exchange that they were unable to meet contracts. This is said to be due to the recent slump of the market.

DAN PATCH
FAMOUS PACER EQUALLED THE
WORLD'S RECORD
Made by Star Pointer at Readville Five Years Ago—Fine Exhibition Tuesday Afternoon.

BASE BALL
ALL AMERICANS TO PLAY NEXT
TUESDAY AT COLUMBUS.
Scores Made in Yesterday's Games.
Harvard's Big Center Men—Sporting Notes of a Day.

Readville, Mass., Sept. 24.—Dan Patch, the famous pacer went against the world's record of 1:59 1-4, made by Star Pointer on the Readville track five years ago Tuesday afternoon, and, in a truly magnificent performance equalled the record.

Depending upon memory, it seemed to horsemen who saw Star Pointer's performance, that the conditions were identical and that meant as near perfect as a day could be. Dan Patch was brought out for a warming up mile with a runner and pace maker. Without an effort he went the distance in 2:13. Half an hour later the handsome black pacer came out for his trial against time. As in the other mile, a runner was sent out ahead. No time was lost in scoring and Myron McHenry nodded the first time down for the wire and a hundred watches caught the start. The pacer had his stride from the word and there was not a skip for the whole mile, his legs moving with perfect regularity. It was not until the third quarter that every one felt convinced that the record was in danger. Up the stretch came the pacer beating out the runner and flashing under the wire a worthy mate, for Star Pointer, his time being 1:59 1-4. Driver McHenry was wildly cheered and the crowd rushed to the rails to see the horse blanketed and led away.

Dan Patch's trial was made at the New England breeders association fall meeting, the program of which has been curtailed through wholesale withdrawal of horses from fall campaigning on tracks in this state.

The events were the New England futurity for foals of 1899, the 2:11 trot and the 2:18 pace and five exhibition miles against time. The futurity stake was easily taken by the filly Ecstasy owned in Barton, Vt.

The trot went to Major Delmar, the winner of the $15,000 Massachusetts stake during the Grand Circuit meet here. The trotter lost the first heat to Nutbearer through a bad break just after starting. In the other heats he was faster than the field and in two heats beat his own record of 2:08 1-2.

DEVERY ON HIS VICTORY.
Declares He Will Occupy No "Cold Seat" in Tammany Hall.
"I've licked them fellers Sheehan and Goodwin an' done 'em up brown," said ex-Chief of Police Devery to a New York Journal reporter in speaking of his victory in the Democratic primary elections in New York. "They said I wouldn't get no more'n 500 votes. I got close on to 1,700, an' the next time they won't get a look in. Now, I'm a-goin' to be the people's leader. An' I ain't a-goin' to occupy no cold seat in Tammany Hall neither, same as they gave to Sheehan when he was in the Hall. If they try to make the seat cold, I'll make it hot for 'em."
"Now let's see if Hill an' McGuire an' Gene Wood are a-goin' to keep me out of the state convention. I'll be there with both feet an' push in the door if necessary. I won out, even if I was up ag'in the dirtiest, trickiest politician in the state of New York. Sheehan tried all kinds of four flushin' to beat me. Him or his people even went so far as to send out circulars forgin' my name to 'em, askin' the people to vote for Sheehan. The people saw through the trick and came out strong for me. Another dirty trick was to frighten out about 600 of my votes by fake challenges an' business men that couldn't get to the polls. Aw, well, forget it. I'm the leader now, an' it don't make any difference."

THIS DOCTOR
Proved to be Wide Awake—After Receiving Diploma He Located at St. Thomas.

When in 1870, Dr. Mathieu Bibeiro received his diploma from a medical school in Portugal, he looked about for some place that was without a physician, where he could build up a practice which he would not be compelled to share with others. The small island of St. Thomas, not far from the African coast, in the Gulf of Guinea, seemed to suit his purpose, and settling there in the fall of 1870, he soon had a paying practice among the natives. Moreover, in his journeyings on muleback through the valleys and among the mountains of the island he was quick to notice that the soil was unusually fertile, and that, with the climate, it was especially adapted to the cultivation of cocoa trees, whose seeds constitute the cocoa beans of commerce. The young doctor kept his discoveries to himself, but eventually that he could save vent for the purchase of land; so that, in a few years, land being cheap, he was the owner of tracts aggregating many hundreds of acres. Meantime, he established a nursery. There he cultivated cocoa plants till they were about fifteen inches tall and hired natives to set them out on his land as fast as he bought it. He joined in the work himself, in long intervals of his visits to the sick, and his wife also assisted him in setting out plants. The plants began to bear in four years, and at the end of the eighth year, were in full productive vigor.—October "Success."

PEOPLE OF THE DAY
To Protect the President.
As a result of the recent accident to the president and his party in Massachusetts there is talk of organizing a special corps of detectives to look after the safety of the president while in Washington and while traveling. Chief

CHIEF JOHN E. WILKIE.
Wilkie, head of the secret service, has always detailed when required his best men for attendance upon the president, but he is in accord with the plan to organize a force of men for this special duty. A suggestion from Assistant Secretary Taylor of the treasury department is that an official coachman be provided for the president to drive the latter's carriage in all the cities he may visit.

A Smoking Senator.
Senator Thomas R. Bard of California is a connoisseur of good cigars. When he travels, he might easily be mistaken for a tobacco salesman, for he carries a grip which contains nothing else. There are long and short ones, light and dark, domestic and imported, Key West, Connecticut and Filipino. Some are worth a dollar apiece, and none is cheap. He has a form of salutation inseparably linked with his "How'd you do?" It is, "Have a fresh cigar." He usually has some new brand which he recommends. "Now," he will say, "I'd just like you to try this. It's something I have just discovered, and I think it has its points." Bard is a Scotch-Irishman and a pillar in the Presbyterian church. Smoking is his only vice.

Mansfield at Home.
Richard Mansfield, when his feet are under his own mahogany, is the spirit of geniality and an unrivaled wit and raconteur, and he keeps the table in a gale of good natured laughter with his impromptu speeches, which sometimes are given in rhyme.
Mansfield has one funny little idiosyncrasy. He always carries his handkerchief in his left hand breast pocket, and he never unfolds it from the neat square in which it comes from the laundry. He often takes it out and wipes his lips, but he is particularly careful not to muss it, and it is returned to his pocket with great care.

GENERAL ELI TORRANCE.
Large attendance of delegates and members of the Grand Army itself is expected that there will be a crowd of visitors larger than even Washington frequently sees. An elaborate programme embracing excursions, balls and receptions has been arranged by the local committee.
Verne Still at Work.
Jules Verne, the novelist, though now in his eighty-sixth year, still works at his desk for four hours a day. He has several new books in hand, which he hopes to finish before the close of the year. His house in Paris is crammed with scientific books, electrical apparatus and nautical instruments, and on the wall of his study hangs an enormous map of the world, all scored over with lines indicating the routes taken by the heroes of his stories. Verne corrects his works to a remarkable extent, and it is said that he has rewritten many of his books ten times.

IMAGINES
THAT SHE IS BEING KISSED TO DEATH.
Strange Hallucination That Has Taken Possession of a Young New York Girl.
Bella Reish, a pretty, dark-eyed New York girl, was last week taken to the insane ward of Bellevue hospital. Her delusion is that she is surrounded by hundreds of boys, each of whom is trying to kiss her to death.
She is 17 years old. The youths of her neighborhood threw themselves at her feet and next threw themselves upon each other's throats. Many a duel of fists was fought over the rivalries.
Presents were showered upon her and she wore clothes that made the other girls glare at her with envy. She imagined that she was married to every one she knew and thought they were killing her with violent kisses. Her cousin, Dr. Max Behr, treated her for nervousness and she centered her insane ideas on him.
"I am not Miss Reish," she would say when addressed, "I am Mrs. Behr—Dr. Max's wife, you know."
Finally, fearing that some harm might come to the girl, her sister called a policeman, who sent for a Bellevue ambulance. Bella was made to understand that the change was for her good, and she willingly went to the hospital.
"Don't strike her, dear, good doctors," wailed Mrs. Solomon, her sister, who shares the general belief in the lower east side that to go to Bellevue is certain death. "Don't starve her on bread and water. Spare her life. She's too beautiful to be killed."

QUEER DEED

OF ASSIGNMENT IS FILED AT ZANESVILLE.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 24.—C. A. Orwig, the Maple avenue grocer, has filed a very odd deed of assignment in probate court. Attorney C. T. Marshall is the assignee.

The deed is dated September 20 and begins as follows:

"I leave Zanesville for reasons best known to myself. I hereby turn the store over to you to sell and collect my accounts and pay my bills as follows:

The assignor directs that his mother shall receive $150; Archford Orwig, $250; Evans Bros., $40; and the remainder to be distributed among the following firms according to the amounts of his indebtedness: Baker Bros., W. W. Harper, Cochran & Plunkerton, Zanesville Provision Co. and Conrad Stolzenbach.

Mr. Marshall states that he is unable to assign any reason for Mr. Orwig's leaving town so suddenly. In the letter the assignor says to Mr. Marshall: "Tell my dear old mother that it is for the best that I leave home and for her not to worry as it will save lots of trouble."

Mr. Marshall states that the proceeds of his assets will hardly liquidate his debts but that they will be applied pro rata. Under the laws of Ohio an assignor cannot prefer one creditor to another and they will all therefore share alike.

CARBOLIC ACID

TAKEN WITH USUAL RESULT AT COSHOCTON.

The Girl, However, Took the Dose by Mistake, Thinking That It Was Medicine.

Coshocton, Sept. 24.—Eva Dobson, a domestic employed at the Empire hotel died last night about 9 o'clock after accidentally taking about three ounces of carbolie acid.

The unfortunate young woman had not been well for several days and Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock she went to the kitchen and asked for a bottle containing an emetic. Another girl handed her a bottle supposed to contain the emetic, but the bottle contained carbolie acid and she went to her room where she drank three large swallows of the deadly fluid.

She immediately dropped to the floor and the woman who had gone to her room with her immediately called a physician who did not arrive until half an hour later. The young woman died suffering terribly.

The deceased was a pretty brunette about 22 years of age and her home was in Zanesville. She had been employed here for the past six months as a domestic and but little is known about her relatives.

The domestic who handed Miss Dobson the bottle is not blamed in the least as the bottles were of the same size and shape. It was plainly marked however with the usual acid label.

A JUDGE'S WIFE CURED OF PELVIC CATARRH.

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless—Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Judge McAllister writes from 1217 West 33rd st., Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"I suffered for years with a pain in the small of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any."

"Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged."

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. Words fail to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."—MINNIE E. McALLISTER.

"What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvic organs are the cause of most cases of female disease."

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's great physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women, and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female disease. He therefore began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female disease ever known. Everywhere the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female disease."

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna."

Miss Phoebe Cary Sheffield, writes from Seguin, Texas, as follows:

"I have followed your directions and treatment, and will always thank you for your kindness. Your medicine is the only medicine that gave me relief from heavy pains in my chest, on account of which I could hardly rest at night. Several of my friends thought I would go into consumption. I now think I am well, but will always have a bottle of Peruna in the house. I think Peruna is the best medicine in the world, for I went to my home doctors and they never did me any good, but when I took your medicine it did me all the good in the world. I have recommended your wonderful treatment to my friends. Since I have taken Peruna I look like a new woman."—Miss P. C. Sheffield.

Mrs. William Kenning, Mt. Clemens, Mich., writes:

"I am happy to be able to write you that I am now again well. I was not well for a year, and did not know what ailed me. Last fall I got a bottle of Peruna. It did me good. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for a book 'Ills of Life,' and he luckily sent me a book about my disease."

"My disease was catarrh of the head, eyes, stomach and liver, and he said if I would follow his advice I would soon be well. I followed the directions closely, and am now entirely well."—Mrs. William Kenning.

Congressman Thad. M. Mahon, of Chambersburg, Pa., writes:

"I take pleasure in commending you Peruna as a substantial tonic and a good catarrh remedy."—T. M. Mahon.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

ELECTRIC CARS

NOW RUNNING ON NEW RAILS TO GRANVILLE.

New Ties Now Being Distributed. New Cars for This Line Are Being Built.

Mr. Charles Vadakin, the veteran railroad man, who has charge of the Newark and Granville street railroad, is pushing the work forward rapidly to completion. New steel rails have already been laid from the Pine street crossing to Granville, and the men are now at work on this end of the line, in the vicinity of Buehler's. New ties will at once be placed in position and the road thoroughly ballasted so as to equal the line between Newark and Columbus, which is considered one of the best electric roads in the state.

Two new cars are now being built for the line and it is said that a half hour schedule is being talked of. The Newark and Granville road will be a bummer by the time snow flies.

MOBS

Still At Work In The Coal Fields Soldiers Are Kept Busy.

Wilkesbarre, Sept. 24.—Riotous mobs are still at work in the valley. Guards and deputies at Exeter colliery were again attacked this morning. Deputy Sheriff Williams was shot down and clubbed. He is dying. Four non-union men refused to turn back from work. They were set upon and severely pummeled. They were David Richards of Wyoming, fire boss, shot in leg; David Harris of West Pittston, coal and iron policeman, beaten on head and back; John Pstroch of West Pittston, beaten on head and badly bruised by clubs.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 24.—Last night at Nanticoke a party of strikers got into an altercation with Harry Smith, who has been working as a non-union man in the semi-bituminous mine at Bormice. The party tried to induce Smith not to resume his work but he refused to make a promise and he was badly injured. A large number of strikers are marching at Nanticoke today with a view of inducing non-union men to quit work. While they were not successful no depredations were committed.

I have been sick for the past six years with dyspepsia and general weakness. I have used Peptonized Port and it has done wonders for me. I am well and able to eat, work and sleep well. I cannot say too much for Peptonized Port.

SIMON ROBBINS.

Gentlemen:—I desire to express to you my thanks for your wonderful Peptonized Port. I was troubled with dyspepsia for five years previous to commencing to use your Port, some six months ago. My cure has been wonderful. I am pastor of the First Methodist church of this place and my congregation can testify to the great virtues of your preparation.

REV. H. WINTHROP.

CHANGE OF MIND.

I declined to insert your advertisement of Walther's Peptonized Port last year, because I then thought it might not be promotive of the cause of temperance, but find it is a very valuable medicine, myself and wife having been greatly benefited by it, and I take great pleasure in saying it.

HORSE

Took Fright and Backed Off the Bridge—Lon Bradford's Shoulder Was Dislocated.

Lon Bradford, colored, a driver of race horses, while driving along West Main street, met with a painful accident Wednesday morning about ten o'clock. His horse frightened and backed off the Raccoon creek bridge, the fall dislocating Bradford's right shoulder. Dr. C. F. Legge attended him, and he was taken to his home at 26 1/2 South Fifth street.

A Human Paradox.

One often bears an amusing paradox—such as a brass tin whistle going around a square, a home whitewashed terra cotta, and "an awfully nice" thing. But it is not a common occurrence to come across a "black white man," and yet this phenomenon is to be seen almost any day in New York. The gentleman is said to be a colored minister in the city, and although in the distance he bears the outward resemblance of a white man—more especially on account of his pallid features and gray white hair—he is unmistakably of the colored race, and what is not the least remarkable is that in consonance with his paradoxical appearance he is wont to relish "hot ice cream puffs"—New York Times.

A Great Exhibition.

The exhibition to be held in New York under the auspices of the Professional Woman's league promises to be by far the greatest ever undertaken by that organization. An impression of the magnitude of some of these features may be obtained from the statement that on one, a reproduction of a street in Venice, it is intended to expend at least $30,000, writes the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Agents have been sent to scour the world for novelties of this kind, while many arrangements already made provide for unique methods of conducting the exposition proper. In view of the recent termination of the war in South Africa no booth in the street is likely to be more popular than that typifying the Transvaal. Here will be presented a scene of dreary desolation, a kraal on the side of a sandy kopie, a shot riddled house in the middle distance, a pair of half starved horses being outspanned by a woman, while the others dispute a poor breakfast of mealies with a hungry cur.

Perkins and the Banana Syndicate.

During his short career in Wall street George W. Perkins has probably managed more and larger syndicates than many a banker in a lifetime, says the New York Times. He is very fond of bananas and generally eats some for his noonday luncheon.

The other day he was standing in front of a fruit peddler's cart selecting some large, ripe samples of the fruit when a friend of his came along and hailed him.

"Hello, Perk," he said, "is the syndicate going into bananas?"

"No," replied Perkins laughingly, "but the bananas are going into the syndicate."

ILL FEELING IN RANKS OF SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24.—The third encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans' association convened in the senate chamber Monday. They were welcomed to the city by Governor Durlin with a short address. About 100 delegates from a number of states were present when Commander in Chief James B. Coryell of Philadelphia opened the encampment. The encampment will last for three days. Captain Richmond P. Hobson will attend the encampment and remain until its close.

Adjutant General W. C. Liller of the association was dismissed from the staff of the commander in chief by General Coryell on refusal of Liller to resign from the position, and Captain Frank S. Clark of Indianapolis was temporarily appointed acting assistant adjutant general. Liller is accused by various members with having mailed libelous and uncomplimentary letters to two or three camps in Ohio, in which he criticised the action of the executive head of the order for the appointment of Colonel Charles Dyer of Ohio as department commander for that state. He said in some of these letters, it is asserted by members of the organization, that the creeping of politics into the organization would eventually disrupt it. A court martial will be convened to try him for his alleged offenses, so General Coryell says.

Liller does not favor the admission of negroes to the association. A resolution will be introduced by members of the Kentucky delegation barring negroes from the order. In this another fight will be provoked in which Liller and Coryell factions will oppose each other, and it is said by members of the Kentucky delegation that if the fight becomes too warm, the Spanish-American War Veterans may break with this encampment.

AMUSEMENTS.

AUDITORIUM TOMORROW.

In "Devil's Island" to be presented at the Auditorium tomorrow evening, the scenes and circumstances appertaining to the most famous government scandal of recent years, the Dreyfus case, will be placed before the theatre goers of our city.

The wide spread attention and notoriety of this remarkable trial has familiarized the entire world with the injustice of the proceedings, and the final outcome is happily shown in the play founded on this famous case.

The blind, mad, loving faith of the wife of the persecuted hero, the prisoner's hope and trust in God of his final innocence, and the happy denouement and justifiable punishment of the traitorous villain are aptly told in a clever manner.

Another character not to be overlooked is that of Countess Nina Petrovski, the mysterious woman in the case, who shows before the final consummation of the piece, where her sympathy and love lie.

"YES, INDEED!"

Lew Tigner's Famous Colored Minstrels and Prof. James S. Lucy's Great Band will have a heart to heart talk with Newark folks tonight at the Auditorium. Mr. Tigner is well acquainted with scores of Newark's best citizens and it will more than please him to meet them at the door tonight. Lew is not out for any political job, but if John Vogle and Al G. Field want to give him a run for popularity in the show business, send in terms gentlemen, and we'll try and arrange matters. This challenge is open to all. Lew Tigner can proudly boast of as many genuine singers, dancers and comedians as any show on the road today. Just stop long enough to read a few names on his roll of wit and mirth. Tom McIntosh, one of the foremost delineators of "Character Africano" in America; then comes McKissick and Jones "all bound round with a silken cord." Jerry Barnes, "all be himself, but busy from start to finish" in lightening the white man's burden with his funny stories and catchy songs, and others too fast to keep track of. Taken from one of the Union City, Ind., papers: "Minstrelsy of the old fashioned kind, with plenty of plantation flavor of melody to suit all classes, an elegant exhibition of dancing, a pot-pouri of catchy gags and a very neat acrobatic and juggling turn made up Lew Tigner's Minstrelsy at the Auditorium Tuesday night. A large audience was present and thoroughly enjoyed the evening's entertainment. A number of the evening's features are new to the minstrel performance of the present day, and were particularly pleasing to the audience, this being manifested by the numerous encores. A return engagement is sure to meet with an S. R. O. house."

And there you are. If the show wasn't worthy the press and public would not put their stamp of approval on it.

A lot of grass-fed steers from North Dakota averaging 1,600 pounds each were sold in Chicago last August at $107.50 per head.

HELP WANTED BY UNCLE SAM

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, Sept. 22.—"Help Wanted" is the legend figuratively displayed at about all of the departments in Washington. While of course the sign does not actually appear on the department bulletin boards, it is well known that Uncle Sam wants a goodly number of bright, energetic and capable young men in various branches of his service.

For perhaps the first time in our history, at least in recent years, the supply of competent men for many important and reasonably lucrative posts is exceeded by the demand. This fall the eligible registers of the civil service commission are depleted for the first time in years, and the chance for those who enter the pending examinations to get positions was never so good as now. In a great majority of these examinations state quotas, hitherto the bugbear of applicants for positions in the government service, are to be ignored. In other words, the fact that the applicant's state has long ago received its full quota of appointments need be no damper on his hopes in such examinations.

The demand is very largely for specialists and young men of technical training, capable of filling such positions as assistant patent office examiners, coast and geodetic survey aids, architectural draftsmen, structural steel draftsmen, draftsmen versed in heating and ventilation, topographic draftsmen, men qualified in both electrical engineering and drafting, in both mechanical and electrical engineering; civil engineers, topographers, computers, superintendents of construction, law clerks, translators, kindergarten teachers and department assistants for the Philippine service.

One of the best openings for the young man of technical training is the examination for assistant examiners in the patent office. Successful contestants will enter with a salary of $1,200 a year and be in line of promotion, through re-examination, all the way up to $2,500 per annum. They will enter a great training school where men learn the inside of the patent business. A few years' experience therein thoroughly equips them for private practice as patent attorneys, in which profession many men are making fortunes.

Young men who have stood well in their college mathematics have now a good opportunity for becoming aids in the fast growing coast and geodetic survey. For the last two years Uncle Sam has been unable to obtain a sufficiency of good material for these offices, which offer wide travel as well as good prospects for promotion.

Young civil engineers are also wanted, and a hundred or more of them will this fall be given a good start under the government as a result of the beginning of the gigantic public irrigation work in the southwest. The great increase of work under the last river and harbor bill will also raise the demand for civil engineers.

When congress at its last session appropriated for 220 new public buildings, it opened the doors of office to hundreds of young men qualified in the various branches of architecture and construction.

Young men and women well versed in both Spanish and English are in great demand. Uncle Sam needs them badly as translators to work both in the home departments and in the federal institutions being scattered widely among our insular possessions. Their tasks will be responsible, inasmuch as they are to be the mouthpiece through which we are to talk to our new wards.

Perhaps the most tempting plan to be plucked through the autumn civil service examinations are the offices to be open to many so called department assistants in the Philippine service.

Their grade is very similar to that which England has adopted for her East Indian service. The purpose of the government is to obtain a large number of well educated, bright, keen young fellows who are willing to enter the permanent Philippine service and work their way up. There is no fixed salary, but those who enter with the poorest examination marks never receive less than $1,200 to begin with, and the chances for promotion and increase of pay are said to be excellent.

These are some of the jobs Uncle Sam has for his bright boys who demonstrate their fitness for them at the autumn civil service examinations. One of Uncle Sam's big concerns is his new printshop. It is, or, rather, will be when finished in the course of a few weeks, the largest printing office in the world, with the greatest capacity of turning out printed matter of all kinds of any establishment on the globe.

The immense building on North Capitol and G streets, which is now receiving the finishing touches, is the new government printing office. For more than three years builders have been engaged in the task of providing a new home for Uncle Sam's publishing house, the ground having been broken on the new site in July, 1899.

The new building is within a short distance and in plain view of the capitol, and senators and representatives have watched with keen interest the progress of the work. Before congress meets again the presses will be merely humming in their new home, as Public Printer Palmer counts on vacating the old premises late in November.

Mr. Palmer and his army of compositors, stereotypes, binders and others will have a sigh of relief as they remove their belongings from the old fire trap which has been their workshop for the past fifty years and more. The fear of some terrible holocaust in the government printing office has been in the minds of the officials for years, for every available foot within its four walls is crowded to the utmost with workmen and supplies. The foundations actually shake under the heavy burdens they bear when the presses are running.

The new structure, which is 408 feet in length on the G street side and 175 feet 3 inches on the North Capitol front, is seven stories high, besides cellar and loft, the latter portions to be used as air spaces in connection with the modern system of ventilation that has been adopted. Four hundred thousand feet of floor space is provided, and this is divided up in such manner as to furnish the best facilities for the prompt dispatch of government work.

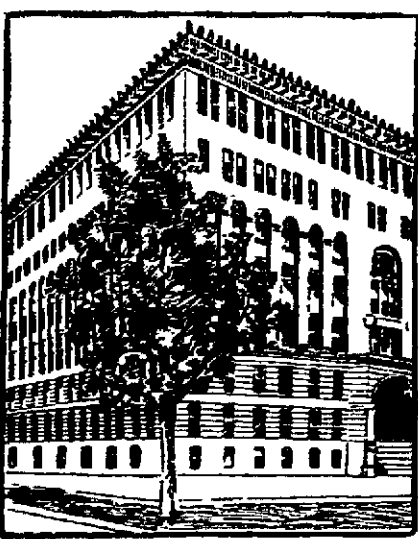

Statistics relating to the amount of materials used in the structure are interesting. Twelve million bricks have gone into the building as well as 14,000,000 pounds of steel, 2,500,000 pounds of cast iron and 45,000 barrels of cement. Of the 12,000,000 bricks one-fourth are faced, and one-third of this number are enameled.

The building is covered by tile laid in asphalt, and as no plaster is used anywhere it will be exceedingly difficult for fire to get a start. Fifteen elevators will answer all requirements both for passenger and freight service. Instead of water coolers a refrigerating plant will be installed, and the fluid, after being filtered, will be run through pipes to drinking fountains in generous numbers throughout the building. Notable among the many improvements introduced is the fireproof feature. It is as nearly indestructible by fire as human genius can make it. The floors were designed to sustain heavy loads, and the brick and steel walls are 2 feet 7 inches thick throughout the entire height.

Congress appropriated $2,429,000 for the building, but Captain Sewell, the army engineer officer in charge of the construction, hopes to turn back $29,000 of this, making the total cost $2,400,000. It is calculated that the facilities of the new building are not only ample for present needs, but sufficient for some years to come.

As now constituted the government printing office numbers about 4,000 employees, of whom about one-third are women. The book bindery, as a part of the government printing office, employs about 900. Compositors number about 1,200. One hundred pressmen and 200 press feeders, in all branches, are employed. There are about 600 folders and 260 stitchers. Of stereotypes and electrotypes there are fifty-five. The remainder of the force includes hydraulic pressmen, engineers, firemen, electricians, boxers, counters, watchmen, helpers and laborers.

This force, which is the largest ever employed in the government printing office, will be considerably increased when the new quarters are occupied. The last session of congress made a larger demand for printing of all kinds than any preceding it, and it is reasonable to expect that the work will, as it has in the past, continue to increase, and with it the facilities for printing and the number of employees.

SAMUEL HUBBARD.

A Loud Call.

A committee once called on Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, to request him to address a society connected with one of the fashionable churches of Washington. Casual mention was made of the fact that the youthful pastor of the church had recently resigned to enter upon a new field of labor on the Pacific coast.

"Why did he resign?" asked Mr. Wu. "Because he had received a call to another church," was the reply. "What salary did you pay him?" "Four thousand dollars." "What is his present salary?" "Eight thousand dollars." "Ah!" said the disciple of Confucius. "A very loud call!"

FADS OF FASHION.

Set Trimmings, Fagoting and Chiffon Boas in Great Vogue.
(Special Correspondence.)

New York, Sept. 22.—There are so many "openings" now that it is a wonder women do not fall into them so hopelessly that they can never get out. Hats and other millinery in some, new ideas in coats and wraps of different descriptions and dresses of every kind, shape and quality in others, and all this does not mention the materials not yet made up. Some of these are for elegant evening attire, and others are for street and everyday wear at home. Tea gowns are represented by some of the prettiest of these robes that I have ever seen. Heretofore tea gowns were too large, but now they are just right. They have the right quantity of garment, lace, narrow bands of fur and no end of beautiful effects in ruffles and other foot trimming. Princess back and straight front is the accepted style for these gowns, and the trimming does the rest. The sleeves are rather longer and looser than dress sleeves, but not so very large as to hang.

For the richest of these tea gowns there are silks that almost stand alone, so rich and firm they are. The figures remind one somewhat of the pictures on the fashionable wall paper. Black silks are very much in evidence. Beautiful velvet figures are shown on some of the fine satin grounds, and they are unusually high relief. The figures are floral so far as the design is concerned, and they are from six to twelve inches in size.

One black ground of satin had fans of alternate black and white sticks all over as the design. These fans were as large as the fans now in fashion. Black moire is displayed in some of the places, but the figure is enormously large. Black moire is always stylish when in fashion, to be sure, which it not always is, and the large design is especially rich. Next to silk velvet moire is the dowager's choice, and it is scarcely less rich. Fine jetted bands of trimming are set where they will show best.

Jet trimming to be right must be of fine beads and the trimming extremely rich, or it would be better to have something else. Nothing looks cheaper than machine made jet trimming. There is a way of making this trimming only achieved by the Frenchwomen. This has a design of some stiff material covered with taffeta silk, and the finely cut jet is sewed to that. This must be done by hand and is beautiful and sets the seal of elegance. It need not be wide, but narrow and fine.

In many of the handsome new street and home gowns is seen such a quantity and variety of fancy stitching and fagoting that it is not only a fashion, but a fad, and to accommodate this peculiar stitching yokes are made to many of the skirts for all occasions. It is admissible for almost every kind of garment from shirt waists to tailor made suits.

One stylish way to make the yoke is to have heavy castle braid in black or in a color to match the skirt, for these braids all match the season's color card. There is then a yoke cut out of the same or some contrasting color, and over this the braid is brought and fastened by the fagging stitch. There are several varieties of this, but all give an open effect that is light and pretty. It is like a large sized hemstitch. Yokes to waists, bands to sleeves, belts and flounces are made in this way.

We thought that boas were not to outlive the spring, but they are, like the poor, still with us. And what a variety—chiffon, white, black, gray, pink, pale blue and lace and ribbon trimmed until one cannot imagine anything so delicate and graceful. Some of white have black edges, some are all white, others all black, some are flat and some fluffy all the way down. For evening wear there are long white ones made of lace put on a stole foundation in cascades. Quite a number have muffs to match. One white chiffon had large medallions of black chantilly lace set on the long tabs.

OLIVE HARPER.

RESTORING OLD CONGRESS HALL

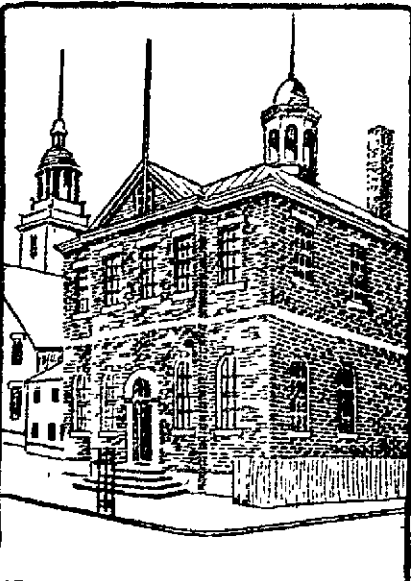

(Special Correspondence.)

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Daily the sound of the hammer is heard in old Congress hall, at the corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets. Brave masons and skillful carpenters are hard at work effecting changes which when completed will restore to the venerable building its pristine appearance. Next to Independence hall, Congress hall stands foremost among the quaint buildings of Independence square, and it is fitting that the American of today should have opportunity to view the building as it looked in the days when his forebears wrought within its walls for the maintenance of the national honor and the national prosperity.

The work of restoration is proceeding apace under the supervision of the city officials and advisory committee of historians, antiquarians and architects. At the present rate of progress it should not be long before the hall assumes the appearance it possessed at the beginning of the last century. The plan provides for the removal of the walls of the county offices, the restoration of the spectators' gallery over the Chestnut street entrance to the house of representatives, the replacement of the railing that excluded visitors from the floor of the house and the restoration of the old fashioned fireplaces, mantels, etc. The hall of the house of representatives occupied the entire floor of the first story in the days when Philadelphia was the seat of the federal government. The second floor was used by the senate, the vice president and other federal officials. These floors will reassume their original aspect before the work is completed.

The history of old Congress hall is interesting to all Americans. It was originally designed for a county building and was completed in 1789. That year the assembly of Pennsylvania offered to congress the use of any or all the state buildings in Philadelphia, including the new county building, should it be decided to make Philadelphia the national capital. The offer was not accepted until 1790 owing to a strenuous contention in congress regarding the merits of several cities which put in claims for the honor of becoming the seat of government.

Philadelphia was finally selected, and the third session of the First congress began in Congress hall Dec. 6, 1790. Insignificant as the building is compared with the present colossal structure in Washington, it was ample for the requirements of the time. Vice President John Adams in 1793 referred to it as a "commodious" edifice, but it was soon necessary to lengthen it in order to accommodate the growing senate and house. The last session of congress in the old building began Dec. 2, 1799, and in July of the following year the federal government was removed to Washington, a single packet sloop sufficing to bear from Philadelphia the whole supply of furniture for all departments and government archives.

The interior of Congress hall was now changed to conform with its original purposes as a county building, and the county and judicial business was then transacted there. At one time legislation was proposed to remove the structure and sell the ground on which it stood, and an act tending this way was actually passed in 1870; but, fortunately for the historical traditions connected with the spot, it was later repealed.

It was in old Congress hall that George Washington bade farewell to public life on the inauguration of John Adams as president, and the occasion was the cause of a great demonstration by the people of their love and respect for the first president of their country. In Congress hall many other notable events were recorded while the national assembly held its meetings there. Among these were: The admission into the Union of Vermont, Kentucky and Tennessee, the establishment of the United States mint, the construction of six warships, which were the beginning of the federal navy; the permanent establishment of the postoffice department, the suppression of the whiskey insurrection in western Pennsylvania, the treaty with Spain opening the Mississippi and the ratification of the Jay treaty.

In 1821 the old hall was the scene of a fire, the northern portion of its roof and the cupola being destroyed. Otherwise its more recent history as a building has been uneventful, the official routine of the senate and judicial business being transacted with the notoriety common to such affairs.

Harper's Ferry, the Gate to the Shenandoah Valley.—Where the three States of Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland come together; where the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers unite; where the towering steep of the Blue Ridge end abruptly, frowning upon the heights of Maryland and Bolivar Heights in West Virginia. Lies the quaint historic town of Harper's Ferry. John Brown baptized it in blood in 1859, when he captured the town and the U. S. Arsenal and made his final and fatal stand in the engine house (known afterwards as John Brown's Fort), alongside the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. A plain shaft, simply inscribed, now marks the location.

Again in 1861, grim visaged war seized the village and held it tight in its grasp for nearly four years. The deeds that were done, and the tales that are told concerning Harper's Ferry fill volumes.

The heights at Harper's Ferry guarded the Shenandoah Valley. It was a most important stronghold to be captured when some great campaign was planned by either army. From Harper's Ferry the Shenandoah

NEWARK LOVER'S DEATH

Causes the Woman to Become Insane at Zanesville---Miss Carpenter, of Summerfield Had Gone to Clay City To Visit Friends.

A story of the shattering by grim death of love's sweet dream, a fiancée's bitter grief and long continued and sorrowful worrying, with the miserable finale of a dehydrated reason, was unfolded at the city prison in Zanesville, Tuesday, says the Zanesville Signal.

Letha Carpenter, an unmarried woman, apparently about 35 years of age, whose home is near Summerfield, in Noble county, was arrested on Putnam avenue about 9 o'clock.

She exhibited signs of violent insanity and was taken in charge by a number of residents in that vicinity who notified the police department. The woman meanwhile, shrieked and struggled and endeavored to secure her liberty.

Chief Tracy went to Putnam in the patrol wagon and returned to the city prison with the unfortunate woman. She offered resistance and cried loudly while riding in the patrol wagon.

When placed in a cell at the prison she continued her mad ravings and her condition was pitiful. Her shrieks could be heard for almost a block and she struck her hands and arms against the bars of the cell in a frightful manner.

Dr. Waters was called and administered a hypodermic injection. It required four men to hold her while she was receiving the treatment. She quieted down somewhat after this but later her condition became worse.

From a friend it was learned that Miss Carpenter came to this city last Friday to visit the family of Harry Priscilla.

On Monday she secured work at the residence of Dr. E. C. Brush as a domestic. About 8 o'clock Tuesday she ran away from the Brush residence and boarded a Putnam car. Her strange actions attracted much attention on the car.

Back of the woman's mental derangement there lies a story that is unusually pathetic.

It seems that until last July Miss Carpenter's life had been very happy. She was then betrothed to John Stevens, a B. & O. brakeman, living at Newark.

About two months ago Mr. Stevens was stricken with typhoid fever and died. His fiancée was disconsolate, and her anguish was intensified after the burial of her lover.

Her friends were most solicitous for her welfare, but their considerations could not efface the tender memories of the loved one departed, nor assuage her poignant grief.

This constant worrying and grieving, it is believed, resulted in her mental derangement.

Chief Tracy notified her parents of their daughter's condition.

Throughout the morning the demented woman kept up her pitiful raving. Her mania took a religious turn and she exhorted her friends and the prison attaches who were gathered on the outside of the cell while at intervals she sang hymns.

When seen in her cell Tuesday afternoon the young woman had quieted and appeared to be rational. She informed Judge Reed that her mind was a perfect blank after the time she left the Brush residence in the morning until the afternoon. She had taken some medicine for a headache which she thought might have caused her mental distress. The marked change in her condition furnished much surprise to prison attaches.

WEDS NIECE

MR. KNELLINGER EXHIBITS THE WEDDING CERTIFICATE.

Which Was Secured in Covington, Ky. The Bridegroom Talks of the Unusual Marriage.

Charles Knellinger, the Zanesville man who had some trouble in getting a marriage license in Kentucky to wed his niece, Miss Margaret Knellinger, has married her after all. Mr. Knellinger has a marriage certificate signed by Rev. J. W. Mitchell of Covington, Ky.

Mr. Knellinger says that he has no statement to give to the public other than that contained in the document shown to the reporter. After some questioning however, he stated that he and his niece were refused a marriage license in Newport, Ky., where they first applied, but that in Covington no questions were asked and that the license was issued without protest.

They then went to a parsonage and were married.

Mr. Knellinger has no statement to make with reference to his and his bride's admissions of Monday that they had been refused a license in Covington. He said that he thought too much publicity ought not to be given to the affair, that he felt that in this particular case they had done the right thing considering the circumstances, but that he was afraid that if the matter was advertised too freely other young people might be induced to follow in their footsteps.

He showed the reporter a clipping from the Cincinnati Post of July 29, in which the opinion of a Jewish rabbi was given as to the right or wrong of the marriage of an uncle to a niece.

Mr. Knellinger stated that he and his bride had yesterday visited her parents in Washington township and that everything was pleasant and agreeable there. He also stated that they would go to housekeeping soon in a residence which he owns on Coal run in the Sixth ward, Zanesville.

HIGHWATER.

On Saturday, Sept. 20, five members of Co. B, Seventy-sixth regiment, G. V. L., visited at the home of Mr. J. L. Rhodeback to have a good handshake and to talk over and review a little of their history during the late war, and also the present. The party was made up of the following old comrades: W. C. Montgomery, G. S. Williamson and F. D. French of Johnstown, Abe Burnside of Alexandria and Virgil W. Graves of Nelligh, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Graves arrived here from their Nebraska home on the eleventh of the present month, and will remain here until Oct. 9th. Mr. Graves expects to attend the big fair on Friday of next week, and hopes to meet many of his old comrades there. This is his first visit to Licking county since 1855, and expresses himself as being well pleased with his visit. The reunion of these old veterans was a very enjoyable one, and when they parted it was with the wish that they might all come together again in the near future and hold another reunion. Mr. Graves is engaged in the banking business in Nebraska.
